BIO

Lost Werks is an Austin, TX based project from singer-songwriter Jason Blanchette. With a penchant for hummable melodies and creative textures. Lost Werks blends rock, pop, blues, funk, and classical genres for a unique, singular sound. Blanchette's music is raw with emotion, and speaks of universal issues such as love, faith, and personal demons - without all of the gloss.

Starting out as a classically trained brass player over 20 years ago, Blanchette eventually gravitated towards singer/songwriters such as Jeff Buckley and Rufus Wainwright. He also names funk legend Prince as a key influence. Looking to become completely self-contained, Blanchette focused his efforts on developing the tools of the songwriter trade: guitar, keys, bass, and drums. After years of performing for audiences both large and small, he has developed an identity as a proficient troubadour.

With a love of all things rock as the foundation, Lost Werks strives to create something that is organic and resonates with people from all walks of life.
